AISP'S Role

✓ We are:	✗ We are not:
Data evangelists	Data holders or intermediaries
Connectors, community builders, thought partners, cheerleaders, and data sharing therapists	A vendor or vendor recommender
Focused on ethical data use for policy change	Focused on academic research

AISP

Our Network & Learning Community

- Network of 22 operational state and local integrated data systems

- Between our three Learning Community cohorts and other sites we support, 14 more sites well on their way

AISP

🟢 Network Sites   🟠 Developing Sites
When we talk about IDS, what do we mean?

- We're talking about people, not tech solutions

- Efforts that link administrative data across domains/agencies

- Efforts that curate data that are relevant and high quality

- Efforts that serve as a public utility (not research for research's sake)

- Efforts that have defined governance structures (data only used for approved uses)

Our approach

Data sharing is as relational as it is technical.

We don't just need to integrate data;
we need to integrate people.

Growing network connections

Who are we these days? 36 Network members and growing!

What have we been doing?

We've:
- Held 35 Network calls in the last 3 years
- Co-authored papers together
- Done collaborative presentations
- Shared our deepest, darkest data-sharing fears (and hopefully sometimes provided the antidote)
- Cheered on new grants, legal agreements, analysis and insights
- Sent & received approximately 5 million emails
- And highlighted all of it in a monthly newsletter!

Governance: Overview

Data governance is the people, policies, and procedures that support how data are used and protected. Data governance for a cross-sector data sharing effort can draw upon one agency's existing data governance practices, involve a separate set of policies and procedures, or be a hybrid of the two. Regardless of the approach taken, cross-sector governance policies and practices should be explicit and collaboratively agreed upon, rather than implicit and driven by any one partner.

Remember – data flow at the speed of trust. Cross-agency data governance is a way of institutionalizing trust to ensure that data use is legal, ethical, and a good idea.

Explore Our Three-Part Series

Each report provides conceptual framing, examples of "work in action," and recommendations for research and practice. This series was developed based on findings from our latest national survey of data integration efforts across the US, interviews and expert working group meetings, and from more than a decade of working with and learning alongside our Network and Learning Community Sites.

Requested Data Output

The type of data output may depend upon both the use case and the role of the requestor. A data use agreement may be necessary for any of the following request types, including aggregate data, for example, if small numbers are not suppressed.

What is your requested data output?
Questions? Contact dataoffice@dhhs.nc.gov

1. Aggregate

A. Aggregated data counts by specified subgroup / population / geography from a single Division/Office
B. Linked and aggregated data by specified subgroup / population / geography from multiple Divisions/Offices

2. Row level

A. Row level data that has been de-identified
B. Row level data with identifiers
C. Underlying source data that has not been curated or manipulated (e.g. for data management or audit purposes)

3. Integrated Row level

A. Row level data without identifiers, linked with another data source owned by NCDHHS linked within NCDHHS data infrastructure
B. Row level data with identifiers to link with another data source owned by NCDHHS linked within NCDHHS data infrastructure
C. Row level data with identifiers to link with another data source owned by NCDHHS linked outside of NCDHHS data infrastructure
